Egypt

from the John Sears FRPSL Collection

John Sears FRPSL has been at the heart of the Egypt Study Circle since joining in 1974, was elected Chairman in December 1976 and, as if 20 years service were not enough, moved on in November 1997 to the role of President, which he holds to this day. His collecting has covered all important areas of Egypt, having first built a comprehensive collection of the 1923-24 issue of definitives, Egypt's first venture into photogravure, which showed for the first time a portrait of King Fuad.

His main loves, however, have been the study of maritime mail carriage to, from and through Egypt's waters, as well as a deep research into airmails that led to the publication in 1990 of "The Airmails of Egypt". This detailed for the first time all the test and experimental flights together with the myriad rates that depended not only on distance but also which airline was carrying the mails. So much new material came to light as a result that a second edition was published, and then a third in 2001. John's "Airmail Jottings" column in the ESC Quarterly Circular continues to detail new discoveries that are made.
